

LAST EDITION.

PAULSEN'S SLAYER.

The Police Say Frank W. Rohle Is the Murderer.

Arrested After a Struggle, with the Bloodstained Axe in Hand.

The Murdered Veteran's Jewelry Found in His Pockets.

The mystery surrounding the murder of Frank G. Paulsen, a veteran soldier, who was found back to death in his room on the top floor of 130 Hester street last night, has been solved by the arrest of the murderer.

FRANK W. ROHLE.
His room is at 130 Hester street, a marble-floored, of 210 Jefferson street, Hoboken. He is a German, but says he was born in Spain, and he looks much like a Spaniard.

In Essex Market Police court this morning he was charged with homicide, and remanded by Justice Hoggan to tomorrow.

There is no doubt that the prisoner in the murder case has been fully identified as the man who was seen running away from the scene of the crime, and, besides, some of the murdered man's jewelry was found in his possession.

This proves that the motive for the murder was robbery.

The murderer was arrested at 10.50 o'clock last night by Policemen Emanuel Meyers, of the East Fifth street station.

He had in his possession the axe with which it is supposed he slew Paulsen, and he tried to commit another murder by attacking the officer when the latter attempted to arrest him.

Meyers was on post on First street near the bawery, some of the people around there called his attention to a man who had been hanging around some of the saloons in the neighborhood where he showed some jewelry which he wanted to sell.

He also attracted attention because of a long-handled axe which he carried.

Policemen Meyers watched the man and finally spoke to him when he met him in First street near the bawery.

"Where did you get that jewelry?" he asked.

The man said it was none of the policeman's business, and Meyers attempted to place him under arrest.

The fellow resisted and attacked the officer with the axe.

They had a desperate struggle but Meyers overpowered and disarmed the fellow. Then he rapped for assistance and had the prisr taken to the Fifth street station.

When searched there was found in his possession a gold watch and chain, another watch, a ring and some small articles.

The prisoner answered the description of the man wanted for Paulsen's murder.

der had been fastened upon the prisoner beyond question.

All the police captains were assembled in the corridor at Headquarters when Capt. Cross and Policemen Meyers marched the murderer out and all took a good look at the criminal.

William Burns and his wife, who live in the same house where the murder occurred and were taken into custody by the police last night were released this morning.

Schultz, a thirty-year-old man, fifty years old, who was arrested on suspicion last night, was also released.

At 3 o'clock this morning Dennis Brennan, a laborer, twenty-four years old, was arrested by Capt. Cross's policemen in connection with the murder.

The police also arrested Charles Knacht, a German friend and Grand Army comrade of Paulsen's, who spent much time with him. He proved an adult, however, and will be discharged.

The jewelry found on Rohle was also identified as Paulsen's by Pat Healy, a barkeeper at the "Oriental," where the dead man was a frequent visitor.

Deputy Coroner Conway made a post-mortem examination of the body at the Eldridge street station this morning, and it was then sent to A. Stoenberger's undertaking rooms, at 82 Stanton street.

Dr. Conway found seven distinct deep wounds in Paulsen's skull, any one of which would have killed him.

The dead man's left little finger was also cut, and the third finger was broken. Between them was tightly clutched a tuft of light hair, probably from the dead man's own head, as it matched that and not his alleged assailant.

When the autopsy was finished Capt. Cross took Rohle into the back room, and confronting him with the horribly mangled body of his supposed victim, demanded:

"Did you ever see that man before?"

The suspect bowed and trembled violently. Finally he gasped: "No," in feeble tones and sank into a chair, shaking with fear.

Captain Cross hurried him away to a cell and even refused then to say whether he believed the man was Paulsen's murderer or not.

Joseph Schwesneck, of 78 Chrystie street, an old comrade of Paulsen, who called to see the body when it was taken to the morgue, said that he had never seen Rohle before.

"He was a good man," he cried, "and never had an enemy in the world. He hadn't lived with his wife and daughter for twelve or fifteen years, but he never told me why and I didn't ask him."

In many of the proposed extensions of the present of a sufficient number of property-holders has not yet been obtained; but from the summer in which they are now coming in, the blocks in which they are now coming in, there will be no difficulty on this score.

We have a year yet in which to obtain these extensions, and it is not probable that we have been so long in obtaining them.

In some cases we can begin very soon, for very little remains to be done in the way of securing rights.

President Crimmins said that so far as the introduction of the trolley system was concerned, he had no objection to it, but that he was not in favor of the trolley system.

He would not state whether the trolley had been definitely decided upon as the mode of power for these lines, but declared that so far as the company had been able to get at the views of interested parties, the trolley was in favor of such a system.

The plan was to connect all the ferries on both sides of the city with the main arteries of travel on the city, and to make for one person coming to the city from the other side, the trolley would be the best mode of travel.

Vice-President Noonan, who was the most active member of the Board in pushing the trolley system, said that he was in favor of it, but that he was not in favor of the trolley system.

"I feel that I have only one duty in this matter, and that is to do the same thing again today," he said, "and to do the same thing again today."

He said that he was in favor of the trolley system, and that he was not in favor of the trolley system.

He said that he was in favor of the trolley system, and that he was not in favor of the trolley system.

He said that he was in favor of the trolley system, and that he was not in favor of the trolley system.

He said that he was in favor of the trolley system, and that he was not in favor of the trolley system.

NO BOODLE, SAYS CRIMMINS.

Traction Company Paid Nothing to Secure Its Franchise.

Its Stock Advanced Forty Points in Philadelphia.

There is great interest today in local and business circles in the action of the Board of Aldermen yesterday in giving away all the valuable railroad franchises asked from the city by the Traction syndicate.

The franchises were all granted without restrictions as to the motive power to be employed, despite the almost universal opposition to the introduction of the dangerous trolley system, and every attempt on the part of Aldermen Morgan, O'Brien, Cowie and School to exclude the use of this system was overruled.

People are asking if this action does not bear a suspicious similarity to the action of the notorious Boodle Board of 1884.

The two most important grants were those to extend the Ninth avenue line along Columbus avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street, and to run a road through Lexington avenue to the Hudson river.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday gave away all the valuable railroad franchises asked from the city by the Traction syndicate.

The franchises were all granted without restrictions as to the motive power to be employed, despite the almost universal opposition to the introduction of the dangerous trolley system, and every attempt on the part of Aldermen Morgan, O'Brien, Cowie and School to exclude the use of this system was overruled.

People are asking if this action does not bear a suspicious similarity to the action of the notorious Boodle Board of 1884.

The two most important grants were those to extend the Ninth avenue line along Columbus avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street, and to run a road through Lexington avenue to the Hudson river.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday gave away all the valuable railroad franchises asked from the city by the Traction syndicate.

The franchises were all granted without restrictions as to the motive power to be employed, despite the almost universal opposition to the introduction of the dangerous trolley system, and every attempt on the part of Aldermen Morgan, O'Brien, Cowie and School to exclude the use of this system was overruled.

People are asking if this action does not bear a suspicious similarity to the action of the notorious Boodle Board of 1884.

The two most important grants were those to extend the Ninth avenue line along Columbus avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street, and to run a road through Lexington avenue to the Hudson river.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday gave away all the valuable railroad franchises asked from the city by the Traction syndicate.

The franchises were all granted without restrictions as to the motive power to be employed, despite the almost universal opposition to the introduction of the dangerous trolley system, and every attempt on the part of Aldermen Morgan, O'Brien, Cowie and School to exclude the use of this system was overruled.

People are asking if this action does not bear a suspicious similarity to the action of the notorious Boodle Board of 1884.

The two most important grants were those to extend the Ninth avenue line along Columbus avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street, and to run a road through Lexington avenue to the Hudson river.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday gave away all the valuable railroad franchises asked from the city by the Traction syndicate.

The franchises were all granted without restrictions as to the motive power to be employed, despite the almost universal opposition to the introduction of the dangerous trolley system, and every attempt on the part of Aldermen Morgan, O'Brien, Cowie and School to exclude the use of this system was overruled.

People are asking if this action does not bear a suspicious similarity to the action of the notorious Boodle Board of 1884.

The two most important grants were those to extend the Ninth avenue line along Columbus avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street, and to run a road through Lexington avenue to the Hudson river.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday gave away all the valuable railroad franchises asked from the city by the Traction syndicate.

The franchises were all granted without restrictions as to the motive power to be employed, despite the almost universal opposition to the introduction of the dangerous trolley system, and every attempt on the part of Aldermen Morgan, O'Brien, Cowie and School to exclude the use of this system was overruled.

People are asking if this action does not bear a suspicious similarity to the action of the notorious Boodle Board of 1884.

The two most important grants were those to extend the Ninth avenue line along Columbus avenue to One Hundred and Tenth street, and to run a road through Lexington avenue to the Hudson river.

The Board of Aldermen yesterday gave away all the valuable railroad franchises asked from the city by the Traction syndicate.

The franchises were all granted without restrictions as to the motive power to be employed, despite the almost universal opposition to the introduction of the dangerous trolley system, and every attempt on the part of Aldermen Morgan, O'Brien, Cowie and School to exclude the use of this system was overruled.

CLEVELAND AND HILL HERE.

The Ex-President Receives Callers at the Victoria Hotel.

County Democrats Organized for the Municipal Campaign.

Ex-President Grover Cleveland arrived in New York at 7 o'clock this morning on the steamer Elberta of the Fall River line.

His four-hour stay in the city was a most successful one, and he was warmly welcomed by a large crowd of his friends and supporters.

Sergeant-at-Arms James Oliver, of the National Democratic committee, was on hand as a reception committee, and as soon as the President had "snatched" around into her dock Mr. Oliver jumped aboard.

Mr. Cleveland and his party did not, however, land until the greater part of the passengers had gone ashore. After the boat was over he appeared on the lower deck.

With him were Richard Watson Gilder, Charles F. Childers, Daniel Griffin, former chairman of the Democratic state committee, and Richard Harding Davis.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

THE COUNTRIES ORGANIZED.

Enthusiastic Meeting at Cooper Union—The District Leaders.

More than five hundred of the six hundred members of the County Democratic's County committee attended last night's meeting at Cooper Union. The object of the assemblage was to elect a permanent organization, which was completed as follows:

Chairman—Charles A. Jackson. Secretaries—Charles Jackson, James A. Lyon, Benjamin Franklin and Max Hand. District Leaders—First District, Charles Mahon; Second, James A. Lyon; Third, James A. Lyon; Fourth, B. E. Dowling; Fifth, M. J. Burke; Sixth, M. J. Burke; Seventh, M. J. Burke; Eighth, M. J. Burke; Ninth, M. J. Burke; Tenth, M. J. Burke; Eleventh, M. J. Burke; Twelfth, M. J. Burke; Thirteenth, M. J. Burke; Fourteenth, M. J. Burke; Fifteenth, M. J. Burke; Sixteenth, M. J. Burke; Seventeenth, M. J. Burke; Eighteenth, M. J. Burke; Nineteenth, M. J. Burke; Twentieth, M. J. Burke; Twenty-first, M. J. Burke; Twenty-second, M. J. Burke; Twenty-third, M. J. Burke; Twenty-fourth, M. J. Burke; Twenty-fifth, M. J. Burke; Twenty-sixth, M. J. Burke; Twenty-seventh, M. J. Burke; Twenty-eighth, M. J. Burke; Twenty-ninth, M. J. Burke; Thirtieth, M. J. Burke; Thirty-first, M. J. Burke; Thirty-second, M. J. Burke; Thirty-third, M. J. Burke; Thirty-fourth, M. J. Burke; Thirty-fifth, M. J. Burke; Thirty-sixth, M. J. Burke; Thirty-seventh, M. J. Burke; Thirty-eighth, M. J. Burke; Thirty-ninth, M. J. Burke; Fortieth, M. J. Burke; Forty-first, M. J. Burke; Forty-second, M. J. Burke; Forty-third, M. J. Burke; Forty-fourth, M. J. Burke; Forty-fifth, M. J. Burke; Forty-sixth, M. J. Burke; Forty-seventh, M. J. Burke; Forty-eighth, M. J. Burke; Forty-ninth, M. J. Burke; Fiftieth, M. J. Burke; Fifty-first, M. J. Burke; Fifty-second, M. J. Burke; Fifty-third, M. J. Burke; Fifty-fourth, M. J. Burke; Fifty-fifth, M. J. Burke; Fifty-sixth, M. J. Burke; Fifty-seventh, M. J. Burke; Fifty-eighth, M. J. Burke; Fifty-ninth, M. J. Burke; Sixtieth, M. J. Burke; Sixty-first, M. J. Burke; Sixty-second, M. J. Burke; Sixty-third, M. J. Burke; Sixty-fourth, M. J. Burke; Sixty-fifth, M. J. Burke; Sixty-sixth, M. J. Burke; Sixty-seventh, M. J. Burke; Sixty-eighth, M. J. Burke; Sixty-ninth, M. J. Burke; Seventieth, M. J. Burke; Seventy-first, M. J. Burke; Seventy-second, M. J. Burke; Seventy-third, M. J. Burke; Seventy-fourth, M. J. Burke; Seventy-fifth, M. J. Burke; Seventy-sixth, M. J. Burke; Seventy-seventh, M. J. Burke; Seventy-eighth, M. J. Burke; Seventy-ninth, M. J. Burke; Eightieth, M. J. Burke; Eighty-first, M. J. Burke; Eighty-second, M. J. Burke; Eighty-third, M. J. Burke; Eighty-fourth, M. J. Burke; Eighty-fifth, M. J. Burke; Eighty-sixth, M. J. Burke; Eighty-seventh, M. J. Burke; Eighty-eighth, M. J. Burke; Eighty-ninth, M. J. Burke; Ninetieth, M. J. Burke; Ninety-first, M. J. Burke; Ninety-second, M. J. Burke; Ninety-third, M. J. Burke; Ninety-fourth, M. J. Burke; Ninety-fifth, M. J. Burke; Ninety-sixth, M. J. Burke; Ninety-seventh, M. J. Burke; Ninety-eighth, M. J. Burke; Ninety-ninth, M. J. Burke; One hundred, M. J. Burke.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland and his party left the boat and entered a carriage which was waiting at the end of the gang-plank. Mr. Cleveland looked exceedingly well and walked up the steep gang-plank with a springy step which told of his good health and good night's rest on the Elberta.

Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Oliver rode away in the first carriage, and Mr. Griffin, Mr. Childers, Mr. Davis and Mr. Oliver followed in another conveyance.

There was an eager pressing forward of the crowd Mr. Cleveland's arrival, and a "Let's give him a cheer" was heard on all sides, but the ex-president, with his usual reserve, did not deign to acknowledge the cheering and was whisked away to the Victoria Hotel.

Mr. Cleveland reached the hotel shortly after 8 o'clock and went at once to his apartment, No. 112, 113, 114, 115, on the second floor, overlooking Fifth avenue. There are the same apartments he occupied on the occasion of his visit to New York three weeks ago.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Oliver rode Mr. Cleveland to the Victoria Hotel, and Mr. Cleveland arrived at the Victoria Hotel.

THAT BULL'S EYE.

MICHAEL J. GOODE SELECTED.

To Be Assistant Appraiser of Merchandise at This Port.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Michael J. Goode has been selected for appointment as an Assistant Appraiser of Merchandise at the port of New York.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has been active in the work of the port.

Mr. Goode is a native of Ireland, and has been in this country for many years. He is a member of the New York Chamber of Commerce, and has